BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

In November 2018 voters in the State of Michigan approved a ballot proposal authorizing so-called “recreational” marijuana use. The new law adds substantially to the rights previously allowed to users of “medical” marijuana. The 2018 law allows—without any action of regulation by the City—those over 21 to grow, possess, consume, and even transfer marijuana subject to various regulations that are established in the law. These rights became effective as soon as the new law did, and, again, they apply without the need for any City approvals or authorization to engage in such conduct.

There is another aspect of the new law, however, that does potentially involve City authorization or approval, and that is with respect to what are called “marijuana establishments” in the new law. These are essentially commercial or business operations that relating to the retail sale/distribution and commercial growing of marijuana.

The new law states that “a municipality may completely prohibit or limit the number of [marijuana] establishments within its boundaries,” and also that “a municipality may adopt other ordinances that are not unreasonably impracticable and do not conflict with this act or with any rule promulgated pursuant to this act” that regulate other commercial aspects of such businesses. In addition, the State of Michigan is charged with coming up with administrative rules that license and govern such commercial establishments. The State has a year from the effective date of the new law to do so.

The draft ordinance attached for City Council’s consideration exercises its right to “opt out” of the commercial aspect of recreational marijuana by prohibiting the location of such establishments in the City. This is consistent with the City’s determination not to allow commercial establishments that provided medical marijuana under that earlier law.

The timing of presenting this ordinance now is driven by the timing of the State of Michigan’s obligation to issue administrative rules regulating these marijuana businesses. If the City does not have an ordinance in place that either prohibits such uses or limits their number at the time the State approves such regulations (again, it has a year to do so, but could do so at any time in that one-year period), then such uses will be essentially unregulated in the City.

Adopting an ordinance prohibiting such establishments does not preclude the City from revisiting the issue in the future, should the Council choose to do so. And if the Council decides to continue discussion of the issue, adoption of this opt out ordinance now would give the City time decide what it might want to allow/not allow regarding such businesses, and how many it might decide to allow, as well as the criteria for allowing them. It would also allow the City to wait and see what those State regulations might include, which could then help the City decide if it wants to allow businesses in the City under whatever those rules might turn out to be.

City Council approved First Reading of the ordinance at its January 7, 2019 meeting.
