Michigan Central Station (90 minute guided tour)- Also known as Michigan Central Depot, it is the historic former main intercity passenger rail station in Detroit. Formally dedicated on January 4, 1914, the station remained open for business until January 6, 1988, when Amtrak service was relocated. The station building consisted of a train depot and a 230-foot office tower with thirteen stories above two mezzanine levels. The tallest rail station in the world at the time of its construction, the Beaux-Arts style architecture was designed by architects who had previously worked on Grand Central Terminal in New York City.

In December 2018 Ford began restoration work consisting of drying out the building and reinforcing structural columns and archways, masonry restoration of the tower and concourse, retiling of the ceiling of the waiting room, and repair of the structural steel. 3-D scanning technology was used to recreate architectural details lost to exposure and vandalism.

Slows Bar-B-Q (included lunch) - Slows has been dishing out award winning Bar-B-Q since 2005 and has become a staple in the Corktown area of Detroit. You will have a choice of two of the following options: Apple Chicken, Pulled Pork, BBQ Spicy Chicken Thigh, or Vegetarian BBQ. All entrees include sides, non-alcoholic beverage and dessert.
